Bushbuddy Ultra Wood Stove: the Bushbuddy Ultra is an environmentally-sensitive (non-scarring), high performance woodfire cook stove. Two parts to the stove - the firebox and the pot holder - nest for clean, efficient, compact storage. The Bushbuddy Ultra's key feature is its double wall firebox. Primary air is drawn into the Bushbuddy Ultra's lower intake ports, where it is preheated within the confines of a double wall. That preheated air is then delivered to the combustion chamber (firebox), resulting in a far more efficient burn. From a performance standpoint, this means that (1) fuel is burned more completely to ash and (2) fuel is burned faster. Bottom line: The Bushbuddy Ultra delivers the most fuel-efficient compact woodstove design available. Environmentally sensitive design - neither flame, coals, nor ash scar the ground. Wood is burned completely to ash during combustion, and ash is contained in the firebox, allowing it to be buried or dispersed appropriately.
